GOOD PROTECTION IN ITS DAY

But today, more than physical protection is required if capital is to be fully safeguarded and kept productive for the benefit of those it must support. "Out of sight — out of mind" costs investors many millions of dollars each year.

Bonds mature or are called; certain rights accrue to holders of stocks; values are threatened by unforeseen developments; constant vigilance must be maintained; unceasing study given before purchases and sales are made.

If it is difficult for you to devote adequate time to caring for your investments or if you would welcome assistance in discharging your financial responsibilities, consider the services offered under a Personal Agency Account.

It affords:

- safekeeping of securities;
- collection of income and principal when due;
- complete data for income tax returns so far as the securities in our care are concerned;
- maintenance of a well-balanced portfolio;
- suggestions for purchase and sale from our Investment Committee.

"Personal Agency Accounts" is a booklet which describes our investment service that is performing valuable assistance to many Hospital Trust customers. Ask for a copy.

► ► A New Purpose in Swimming

"Water Commandos"

► ► EVERYTHING from the basic back float to the technique of swimming under water to avoid blazing oil patches or to escape from the cockpit of a submerged plane was offered recently as the latest phase of Brown University's Physical Fitness Program.

Given as a course in "Functional Swimming and Water Safety Training", the program is part of Brown's pre-induction military training courses and is in harmony with Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell's advice to American educators, "Be sure that no American soldier is killed or injured because you failed to do your part to provide adequate training. It is the job of schools and colleges of America to provide the opportunity for every youth to equip himself for a place in winning the war."

The 400 Brown men participating in the Navy-supervised training classes continued in this work until the end of regular classes for the summer semester, attending three classes a week. At the end of the course, a series of tests were given to determine their skill. This "water commando" work will be conducted through the fall as well.

The functional swimming course was planned by Carroll Bryant of the American Red Cross, who has been in England training Commando forces in aquatics. It is designed to "increase the service man's chance of survival in the water in case of mishap and to give the men the technical advantages of ready mobility in the water."

The course at Brown, under the direction of Swimming Coach E. Leo Barry, has been divided into three groups for instruction—non-swimmers, novice swimmers, and expert swimmers. Members of the swimming team act as demonstrators for classes in the Colgate-Hoyt swimming pool.

As part of fundamental swimming skills, Brown men learn the breast stroke, breast stroke with scissors kick, side stroke and back stroke and will be able to float, tread water, and plunge.

► In the second part of the course, trainees are taught nine variations of the fundamental skills: side stroke using legs and one arm only, to tow floated equipment or a helpless comrade; swimming on back, using legs only, to tow when both hands are engaged in the task or when both arms are disabled; swimming under water, to avoid enemy fire, to get clear of oil and surface debris; swimming and floating in restricted area, while awaiting pick-up and rescue; silent swimming, to avoid drawing enemy gunfire; swimming with head high, to keep face clear of water at all times, especially in rough seas and spindrift; swimming with splash recovery, to swim through ignited oil patches on sea; plunge diving from 12 to 15 feet at 45 degree angle, useful in getting clear of a sinking ship; leaping into the water feet foremost at 16-20 feet without difficulty, an emergency method of entering the water from high em-bankments or decks of ships.

To meet special conditions, a third part of the course emphasizes swimming for several minutes with and without shoes; swimming and floating fully clothed and supported by life belt; treading water fully clothed and in a life belt. Eventually students fully clothed and with full equipment are able to swim, tread water and float or to swim with a 10 lb. length of pipe simulating a rifle; to leap from graduated heights up to 16-20 feet fully clothed and wearing life belts; to plunge, dive and swim under water fully clothed and finally to push or tow float-supported light weapons or supplies. ◀ ◀

Brunoniana

► ► BROWN GRADS, voting in a special election, nominated Arthur W. Packard '25 and Dr. Charles C. Tillinghast '06 as Alumni Trustees. On Oct. 16 the University Corporation completed their election and added to the number three Corporation Trustees: Fred B. Perkins '19 of Providence and Claude R. Branch '07 and Homer N. Sweet '07 of Boston. Rev. Albert C. Thomas '08, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Providence, previously elected, took his engagement as a Corporation member. Resignations of William E. Lincoln '68 and William R. Dorman '92 were accepted.

Election of Packard and Tillinghast was the first held since Charter amendment did away with the requirement of denominational qualification. Curious thing was that both, leaders on a slate of 13, are New York Baptists, who would have been running against each other for a single vacancy under previous election rules.

Future election of Alumni Trustees, two a year for seven-year terms, will be conducted by a new agreement. Where recent voting for Alumni Trustees has been limited to graduate men and holders of advanced and honorary degrees, the franchise will now be extended to all alumni who attended Brown for four semesters and to Pembroke alumnae of similar standing.

► IN ONE OF HIS BEST talks since his arrival at Brown, President Henry M. Wriston told the 1942 Alumni Day crowd that the drafting of 18- and 19-year-old American boys was necessary because of the nation's earlier adoption of the principles of security, "the most corrosive word of modern times."

"The question of what will happen to our colleges when this law is passed is irrelevant," the President said. "I don't much care even if we are forced to close our colleges — as long as we have the energy to open them again. We have been obliged in the past to curtail our academic program because of a wartime emergency only to open them again for the developing of peace-time leaders. The important thing is that we maintain our intellectual and spiritual integrity."

The committee under Alexander T. Hindmarsh '19 had arranged a well-balanced program in the Naval Gym, following closely on the final whistle of the football victory over Lafayette. H. Linus Travers '27, Vice-President of the Yankee Network, paid amusing compliment to the ladies, present for the first time at an Alumni Day supper. A gay interruption came when J. Harold Williams '18 as a gray-beard broke in to ask why something wasn't being done about the fact that this was the 100th anniversary of the founding of an alumni association at Brown. Representing nearly 2000 alumni in military service, Rev. Raymond S. Hall '31, paratroop chaplain, came up from the South to describe vividly his first jump, his work, and the faith of the men in arms. Roger T. Clapp '19 was a suave toastmaster.

Paul H. Hodge '28 and his fellow members of the Providence Brown Club's executive committee were the ticket committee, while Nelson B. Jones '28, Louis A. R. Pieri '20, A. W. Calder, Jr. '28, Carleton Goff '24, Walter V. Moriarty '20, Edward T. Richards '27, Shirley Elsbree '25, and W. Chesley Worthington '23 had other committee berths. H. Stanton Smith '21 was in charge of the annual regatta for the Thurber Trophy, in which the Alumni defeated the undergraduates on the Seekonk. Alumni Day was underwritten by the Providence Brown Club, the Associated Alumni and the University.

► DRAFT the most promising youth for college in wartime, President Wriston suggested in his annual report to the Corporation of Brown this fall. Such a Selective Service principle, he said, would take from the hands of the college and the prospective student the responsibility of determining which shall go to college. It would thus eliminate from the picture any possible suggestion of avoidance of military service, he pointed out.

In the course of a full survey of the part of the college and university in the war effort, he further suggested that they should be used for further education of the wounded who are convalescent but who cannot return to armed service, "as a transition to the return to civilian life."

► COMING BACK after seeing Holy Cross take a 14-0 lead on Nov. 7, the Brown football varsity showed the courage and fine play it was capable of in a 20-14 victory that must go down as one of the finest of any season. It was the high spot of the 1942 autumn and kept the home schedule without defeat. After early season triumphs over Rhode Island and Columbia, in which the team revealed offensive power to rank with the nation's best, the attack began to bog down against a stubborn Lafayette team and then lapsed as Princeton and Yale found weaknesses in the Bear's pass defense to run up large scores.

What made the resurgence against Holy Cross the more heartening was the fact that it came with the squad still handicapped by injuries. Margarita, whose ground-gaining was highest in the land until he was injured at Princeton, was still on the sidelines, and other casualties had made it necessary to revamp the backfield. But Savage, hurt in scrimmage earlier in the week, was determined he'd be in shape to play and was. He sparked the Brunonians to a heart-rousing kind of fight that no spectator will ever forget.

Against Harvard, too, it looked as though the Bear would march to victory on a 98-yard advance at the outset, but a costly fumble on a bitter day turned the tide. Though the team went down fighting, a single 58-yard touchdown romp by a Sophomore from Providence gave Harvard a 7-0 triumph.

Best Junior Varsity game was that in which the team fought back against Dartmouth and won with Titcomb's last minute field goal, 17-16.

The season's Varsity scores: Brown 28, Rhode Island 0. Brown 28, Columbia 21. Brown 7, Lafayette 0. Princeton 32, Brown 13. Yale 27, Brown 0. Brown 20, Holy Cross 14. Harvard 7, Brown 0.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT DEPT. (from the Providence Journal for Oct. 13): "Elections for Brown University students to Phi Beta Kappa, scheduled to take place yesterday, will be held today instead. Football practice and other athletic activities prevented a quorum yesterday."

Song for the Andes

► GEOLOGIST Arthur B. Cleaves '27, writing from Caracas, told Prof. Charles W. Brown last month: "I'm also well posted on football scores, and have been thrilled with the splendid progress of the Brown team. Last week I was riding mountain trails in a dismal downpour. Everyone looked so depressed that I 'bounced' into the Brown football songs, and, before long even our three peons were singing 'We Are Ever True to Brown.' I guess that's the most unusual sound these Andes have heard since Bolivar's tattered armies struggled over these same trails."

Cleaves expects a November holiday in the United States. Although envious of his brothers, Alfred and Emery, who are both Lieutenants in the Navy, Cleaves has been of conspicuous service in his own field. Since 1938 he has been chief geologist on more than $300,000,000 worth of heavy construction and engineering work.

"I should never have been capable of carrying through successfully on these projects without the careful preparation and inspiration at Brown. I feel very inadequate and humble when I realize my heavy responsibility to you and my University."

In the same mail with the letter from Venezuela came another to Prof. Brown from Pemberton Killeen '29, another protege, on assignment in Alaska.

Promotions on the Journal

► Two Brown men figure prominently in promotions announced not long ago by the Providence Journal, which assigned veteran staff members to new important responsibilities. Frederic W. Collins '28, political writer who has been represented in news-story anthologies, has gone to Washington to succeed the retiring Ashmun Brown, one of the Capital's most distinguished correspondents. Garrett D. Byrnes '26, for many years drama and motion picture critic on the Evening Bulletin, with friends among the most noted figures in the two arts, is the new Sunday Editor. Wider responsibilities than any previously assigned in this post have been given him, and he has already invigorated further one of the best Sunday papers in the country.

Negro $1-a-Year Man

► "LORIMER MILTON, the only Negro $1-a-year man in the Government, and a graduate of Brown University (1920). He flies up to Washington from Atlanta, where he is a bank president," writes W. M. Kiplinger in his book "Washington is Like That," which Harper & Brothers brought out a month or so ago. Mr. Kiplinger, citing a list of Negro leaders within the Government, names Milton high up among the most prominent.

Catalogues Available

► ANY alumnus who is willing to pay the postage may have for the asking a copy of the Brown Historical Catalogue for 1904, 1914, or 1924. Address the Secretary, Brown University. (A charge of $2.50 is asked for the most recent edition, 1934.)

In Chapter Houses ◀ ◀

▶ ▶ FALL initiations, unusual for Brown fraternities, are being held following pledging of Freshmen on the campus for the summer term. Autumn rushing will have ended by the time this issue is mailed. In August, 96 Freshmen or 48 per cent of the class presented pledge cards at the Dean's office from 15 fraternities.

Four houses on the hill filled their quota of eight men—Delta Kappa Epsilon, Delta Upsilon, Phi Delta Theta, and Psi Upsilon. Seven houses pledged seven men—Alpha Delta Phi, Delta Phi, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Gamma Delta, Pi Lambda Phi, Sigma Chi, and Zeta Psi.

A list of the houses and their pledges follows:

Alpha Delta Phi—Stephen C. Collins, Great Barrington, Mass.; Joseph H. Farnham, Jr., Milburn, N. J.; Richard H. M. Holmes, London, England; Ivory Littlefield, Jr., Providence; Robert E. Lowe, Westfield, N. J.; Hugh MacNair, Great Neck, Long Island, N. Y.; Moulton Sawin, New York, N. Y.

Delta Kappa Epsilon—Charles F. Abbott, Jr., Glen Ridge, N. J.; Edward Crump, III, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Stephen Garratt, Hamden, Conn.; John H. Kimball, Jr., Larchmont, N. Y.; Stanley P. Lewis, Short Hills, N. J.; Alexander Murchie, Jr., Concord, N. H.; C. LeRoy Samson, White Plains, N. Y.; Morris A. Stout, III, Allentown, Pa.

Delta Phi—William S. Barrett, West Barrington, R. I.; John V. Clair, Easthampton, Mass.; Robert F. Cook, Arlington, Mass.; James P. Elder, Rumford, R. I.; Bencion Moskow, Newton, Mass.; Robert W. Shaw, Castleton-on-Hudson, N. Y.; Howard S. Young, Jr., Providence.

Delta Tau Delta—R. McLane Brennan, Cleveland, Ohio; Peter Quinn, New York, N. Y.; John A. Tillinghast, 2nd, Providence; Walter H. Zillessen, Jr., Boston, Mass.

Delta Upsilon—James Austin, Chicago, Ill.; Adrian P. Becker, Glen Ridge, N. J.; Robert H. Marneck, Lombard, Ill.; J. Shepard Miller, Indio, Calif.; Craig W. Moodie, Jr., Needham, Mass.; Edward Pollard, Needham, Mass.; Scott Shepherd, Needham, Mass.; Richard R. Thierry, Westport, Conn.

Lambda Chi Alpha—Frank B. Cuff, Jr., White Plains, N. Y.; Robert Kiefer, Maywood, N. J.; James F. McDonald, Jr., Springfield, Mass.; Francis S. Phraner, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Robert J. A. Thacker, Needham, Mass.; James E. Van Epp, East Cleveland, Ohio; Frank J. Williams, Jr., Amesbury, Mass.

Phi Delta Theta—Sylvester Brown, Jr., Cambridge, Mass.; Frederick Fradley, Bronxville, N. Y.; John E. Kelly, Pawtucket; William R. Kelly, Pawtucket; Donald H. McQuiston, Bronxville, N. Y.; H. Scott Powers, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Gordon H. Price, Bronxville, N. Y.; Allen N. Young, Cowesett, R. I.

Phi Gamma Delta—Robert C. Barnes, Haverhill, Mass.; James N. B. McKay, Youngstown, Ohio; Dudley R. Morean, Jr., Upper Montclair, N. J.; George C. Myers, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, Pa.; Cornelius W. Provost, New York, N. Y.; Edward N. Selmer, Jr., Staten Island, N. Y.; Lyman L. Watrous, New London, Conn.

Phi Kappa Psi—Alfred Buckley, Jr., Providence; Robert O'Donoghue, Lowell, Mass.; Richard C. Philbrick, Providence; Ellwood E. Shields, Lowell, Mass.; Hollis Tegarden, Hopedale, Mass.

Pi Lambda Phi—Georger Berger, Neponset, Long Island, N. Y.; Paul Green, Brookline, Mass.; Herbert Hirsch, New York, N. Y.; Lawrence D. Joseph, Jr., Chicago, Ill.; Stanley R. Schampan, Passaic, N. J.; Alan Skurnik, Newton, Mass.; Sherwin Steigar, Charleston, West Va.

Psi Upsilon—Edward P. Blanchard, Bridgeport, Conn.; Charles F. Carter, Lexington, Mass.; William D. Crecca, Jr., Newark, N. J.; Charles D. Fischer, Bloomfield, N. J.; Charles T. Graham, Kent, Ohio; Ellwood A. Houtz, Beverly, Mass.; John B. Lee, Lake Forest, Ill.; Seth Sims, Jr., Quincy, Ill.

Sigma Chi—W. Scribner Fellows, New Britain, Conn.; Frederick C. Hailer, Jr., Boston, Mass.; James J. Hooker, Cincinnati, Ohio; Leonard Leimbach, Greenfield, Mass.; Walter R. Miller, Bellerose, N. Y.; Ernest F. Perkins, Jr., Melrose, Mass.; John Petropoulos, South Norwalk, Conn.

Sigma Nu—Davis T. Gallison, Jr., Newton, Mass.; F. Campbell Kenyon, Jr., Cranston, R. I.; Harold C. Kinne, Jr., Pawtucket; Edward Krise, Washington, D. C.; Richard C. Sacli, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Theta Delta Chi—Thomas R. Knowlton, Pleasantville, N. Y.

The Lanpher Cup

▶ THERE was a Lanpher Cup award for 1941-42, but Dean Lanpher, for the first time since he provided the trophy, did not make the presentation. President Wriston did the honors in August because, for the first time, his own fraternity, Delta Tau Delta, had won the cup. In winning the intramural competition for the year, the Delta nosed out Delta Upsilon, previous champions, in a two-team finish. It was a virtual triple tie for third: The totals for the year: Delta Tau Delta 392.5, Delta Upsilon 381.5, Phi Gamma Delta 218.8, Zeta Psi 218.3, Psi Upsilon 218.0, Delta Phi 201.0, Delta Kappa Epsilon 198.5, Alpha Delta Phi 194.0, Phi Kappa Psi 152.3, Pi Lambda Phi 137.8, Phi Delta Theta 127.0, Lambda Chi Alpha 125.0, Sigma Chi 72.0, Sigma Nu 60.5, Theta Delta Chi 41.5, Beta Theta Pi 40.5, Kappa Sigma 34.0.

Fraternity Scholarship

▶ It's Pi Lambda Phi, Lambda Chi Alpha and Delta Upsilon running one-two-three again on the list of scholastic ranking for 1941-42 which Dean Arnold announced in August. The three were the leaders in 1940-41 and hold their relative positions. Into fourth place, however, Delta Phi climbs from 10th position to win the Edward T. Richards cup for biggest improvement.

	Average	Previous Ranking	Total Members
1. Pi Lambda Phi	2.681	1	49
2. Lambda Chi Alpha	2.547	2	42
3. Delta Upsilon	2.484	3	47

▶ ▶ Brunonians Far and Near

By ALFRED H. GURNEY '07

▶ ▶ FORMER Governor Edward C. Stokes of New Jersey was reported to be in hospital, according to a letter sent to your Class Secretary (Henry P. Manning) by our classmate's secretary. Then came the news of his death on Nov. 4. An account of his noteworthy career will appear in a later issue of the BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY.

Nathaniel Blaisdell, president of the Brown Club of Alta California, did not come East from San Francisco this fall. "While these alarms, alerts, blackouts, dimouts and false reports continue," he wrote last month, "I dare not leave home. . . . We are living in half-light." His description of the preparations made to protect his house in case of air raids is a vivid and absorbing one. "My nostalgia for Brown and my group of friends in and around 'that good old boys' school' is hard to bear," he added, asking to be remembered to Walter Burnham and H. P. Manning.

Your Secretary records with regret the death of Wilson G. Crosby in Duluth, Minn., Sept. 27, 1942, and extends to his two sons the sympathy of the Class. Lawyer, philanthropist, and lover of music and art, he was a native of Edgartown, Mass., and "one of the most distinguished of his generation of Vineyarders."

1885

Former Supreme Court Justice Norman S. Dike, observing his 80th birthday last month, was guest of honor at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher W. Rockwell at the Hotel Plaza, New York. Lt. Norman S. Dike, Jr. '41, U. S. A., and Mrs. Dike were at the dinner.

1890

Rev. Daniel S. Jenks is back at his home in Concord, N. H., after nearly a year under hospital care. Retiring in December, 1935, after serving 22 years as General Secretary, New Hampshire State Baptist Convention, he became seriously ill in 1939. "Now," he wrote laconically in mid-September, "I have a much milder form of illness, living at my home in Concord, RFD 3."

The late Dr. James Quayle Dealey's brother, G. B. Dealey, began his 69th year of work for The Dallas News in Dallas, Tex., Oct. 13. "It is a record in the newspaper world for continuous association with one institution," said the AP. Mr. Dealey, starting as office boy, is now publisher of The News, is 83 years old, and "puts in a full office day six days a week." Our classmate was editor of The News from the time he left Brown in 1929 until his death.

Observing his 50th anniversary with the company, George J. Holden, treasurer and general manager of Smith-Holden Dental Supply Co., was guest of his fellow workers at a dinner at the Biltmore Hotel, Providence, Sept. 26. He received a clock and barometer, had his chance to talk about his years of service, and then organized the Quarter Century Club of 12 men and women, including himself. "To each he gave a $25 War Bond on behalf of the company. Theodore R. Jeffers '23 was toastmaster.

Rev. Charles A. Meader and Mrs. Meader have left East Greenwich, where our classmate is rector emeritus of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, to live in South Attleboro, Mass. They spent the summer at their house in Wilmot Flat, N. H.

William R. Dorman has resigned as Trustee of the University after 30 years of devoted and constructive service. He is still practicing law in New York as a member of the firm of Dorman & Dana (Charles B. Dana '99).

Mrs. Emily Meader Easton, widow of our classmate Frank T. Easton, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albert S. Tufts, in Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 13, 1942. Mrs. Easton, graduate of Wellesley College and former teacher of English in Providence Classical High School, prepared material during research in England for two biographies, "Roger Williams: Prophet and Pioneer," and "Youth Immortal," the life of Robert Herrick.

1893

Walter S. Reynolds has been elected as an honorary member of The University Club, Providence, of which he was a founder.

1896

Jesse F. Smith, beginning his 25th year on the teaching staff of Suffield Academy, Suffield, Conn., has established a record for consecutive service at the school which has been in operation for 108 years.

George L. Parker writes: "After Nov. 1, my address until next spring will be 398 Victoria Ave., Winter Park, Fla."

Russell Hathaway, retired after 35 years' service with the Associated Press, including 15 years as chief of the AP bureau in Albany, N. Y., is living at 35 Van Schaick Ave., Albany.

Rev. Dr. Joseph C. Robbins, president of Northern Baptist Convention, began a nation-wide speaking tour at First Baptist Church, Providence, Sunday, Oct. 4. He also spoke at a youth service that afternoon at Calvary Baptist Church. Before he returns home he will have visited the 37 States in which there are Baptist churches.

Associate Justice Charles A. Walsh of Rhode Island Superior Court has succeeded Herbert M. Sherwood '09 as chairman of the Providence Civilian Defense Council and is also director of the civilian defense division of the Council. He has been head of the consumer division since the Council was organized. Judge Walsh, the Providence Bulletin said editorially, "sets another example of the type of outstanding public-spirited citizen which civilian defense requires both as leaders and as men capable of impressing upon the people the serious obligation to prepare intelligently and thoroughly for the possibility of wartime destruction here at home. Judge Walsh can provide the leadership, the cohesive force and the forward drive that spell success for Providence civilian defense."

Dr. Henry Wade Hopkins, who died suddenly in Burlington, Vt., Oct. 14, had been physician and surgeon in Warren, R. I., 37 years. He had also served as Medical Examiner. He left Brown at the end of three years, entered the Medical School, University of Vermont, and won his M.D. degree in 1902 as one of five honor men of the class. He was one of Warren's best known citizens, a Mason, a member of the Council of Civilian Defense, and of Alpha Tau Omega and Delta Mu, medical fraternity.

Charles C. Remington, your Class Secretary, and Mrs. Remington are now living at 208 Waterman St., Providence. He was reported to have suffered a heart attack late in October.

1900

Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. MacKnight of Auburn have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss June D. MacKnight, to Henry Carpenter Bacon, son of Willard H. Bacon and Mrs. Bacon of Westerly.

1901

President Harvey N. Davis of Stevens Institute of Technology told the student body at the opening of the Institute's 71st academic year in September that the Government's draft policy was creating "disastrous chaos" in industry. "Somehow the public must be made to realize," he said, "that this is fundamentally a highly mechanized war and that we are in far more danger of losing it in the factories and shipyards at home than in any of the combat areas. Somehow we must learn to give more public respect and appreciation to our production army at the bench and at the machine tool." He gave facts and figures on the diversion of engineering students into the armed forces, and, according to the New York Herald Tribune news story, "saw the ultimate answer in a legally established system of 'reserved occupations' such as was provided by Parliamentary action in Britain in 1939, before the war."

Harold L. Madison, field executive of Audubon Society of Rhode Island, spoke on "Birds: Their Habits and Their Nests," at the October meeting of the Providence League for the Hard of Hearing.

Harrison E. Wright's guest in Basking Ridge, N. J., Sunday, Sept. 20, was Rev. Dr. Antonio Mangano '99, former pastor of First Italian Baptist Church, Brooklyn, N. Y. Dr. Mangano spoke before the S. S. Childs Bible Class, of which Wright is president, in the Presbyterian Church, and also preached at Millington Baptist Church and at the Italian Presbyterian Church, Bernardsville, N. J., while he was with the Wrights.

Your Secretary records with regret the death of Henry Langworthy Burdick in Westerly, Oct. 4, 1942, and gives to Mrs. Burdick the sincere sympathy of the Class. Burdick entered Brown with us, and later transferred to Amherst, from which he was graduated in 1903. He studied law at Harvard Law School, was an associate of the good Brown firm of Gardner, Pirce & Thornley, Providence, and in 1912 joined Starkweather & Sherlev, Inc., insurance, as attorney. He was a leader in Westerly civic work, member of several clubs and of the First Hopkinton Seventh Day Baptist Church, Ashaway. His fraternity was Delta Kappa Epsilon at Amherst.

Rev. Anthony H. Dexter has announced the marriage of his daughter, Cornelia, to Dalton Emerson Merkel in St. James Church, South Pasadena, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Merkel are living in Pasadena.

Vice President J. Cunliffe Bullock of Industrial Trust Co. is head of the Executive Gifts Division of the United War Fund for 1942 in Providence. This is his second successive year as chairman and leader of the division. It's a bigger job than ever because the UWF represents the United Campaign of Community Chests taking in 16 Rhode Island communities serving more than 75 agencies, and 14 war relief groups. Brown men working with Jim are John S. Chafee '18 and Fred H. Barrows, Jr., '27.

1903

Rev. Isaac Fleming is pastor of First Congregational Church, Benicia, Calif.

1904

Louis E. Feingold is practicing law at 629 Slater Bldg., Worcester, Mass., where he lives at 112 Elm St.

John F. Heckman and Mrs. Heckman of Providence have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Heckman, to Jonathan Nicholl Rawson, son of Mrs. Marion Nicholl Rawson of Providence and East Alsted, N. H., and the late Jonathan A. Rawson.

Miss Martha Wylly Appleton, daughter of Everard and Mrs. Appleton, and Lt. David E. Cain, USA, were married at St. Stephen's Church, Providence, Oct. 24, 1942. The wedding was to have taken place Nov. 14, but was moved ahead because of a change in Lt. Cain's orders. Lt. Cain is the son of Col. and Mrs. David E. Cain, Madison Barracks, Sacketts Harbor, N. Y.

Martin Stuart Hall, with Seneca Engineering Co., Montour Falls, N. Y., reports he is active in engineering work connected with the war program. Back on the campus earlier in the year, he visited some of the scenes of his undergraduate years with his old teacher and friend, Emeritus Professor A. E. Watson '88.

Rev. Hinson V. Howlett supplied the pulpit of the Fourth Baptist Church, Providence, during the summer. Now he is back at his regular pastorate in Binghamton, N. Y.

James H. Connolly, Jr., son of our late classmate, is studying at a preparatory school in Lenox, Mass.

Miss Ruth Richmond Palmer, daughter of John S. Palmer, 2nd, and Mrs. Palmer, and F. Nelson Blount of Barrington, were marnied in St. Michael's Episcopal Church, Bristol, Oct. 10, 1942. Mrs. Blount attended Lincoln School, Providence, where she teaches home economics, and Stoneleigh College. Mr. Blount and his best man, Frederick H. Richardson, are authors of "Along the Iron Trail."

Your Class Secretary modestly admits being a grandfather. His granddaughter, Rowena, born Labor Day morning in Providence, is the daughter of Knight D. Robinson '35 and Mrs. Robinson.

Report of the death of Smith O. Steere in Hornell, N. Y., in September has come regrettably to your Class Secretary. Stuart Hall wrote that Smith had done no work since June because of a heart ailment. To Mrs. Steere and the two sons the sympathy of the Class is sincerely given.

Harry E. Pattee's son John, alias Jay, has been getting a great deal of space in the sports columns because of his uncanny accuracy in kicking goals after Brown touchdowns. Up to the end of the Brown-Lafayette game, Jay, a Junior on the Hill, had not missed a point after touchdown since he joined the varsity. His best single game record in his football career has been four straight; now he wants the Brown team to make five touchdowns so he can kick all five points and make another record. Jay not only kicks placements but also stands out as a blocking back. He's built like his father, but is much heavier than Harry was in his college days.

Another item about the Pattee family is the marriage of Miss Elaine Grant Pattee to Donald C. North, Jr., of Baltimore, Md., and Clearwater, Fla., at West Barrington Methodist Church, Oct. 11, 1942. Harry gave his daughter in marriage, and ushers were the bride's three brothers, Harry E. Pattee, Jr., John, and William H. Pattee. Mrs. North is a graduate of New England Conservatory of Music; Mr. North of Georgia Institute of Technology.

Richard D. Tucker is in his second year as superintendent of schools, South Dartmouth, Mass., where he lives at 12 Prospect St.

Councilman Philip V. Marcus was candidate for re-election this fall to Providence City Council as a Republican. During the past two years, with the Council Democratic 21 to 5, Phil has repeatedly asked for rules recognizing the minority, and has carefully scrutinized all financial measures.

Dr. John G. Walsh, Providence obstetrician, is getting back into his stride again after an appendectomy in late October.

Percy Shires and Mrs. Shires have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Priscilla Eleanor Shires, to Supply Sgt. Eddie Lee Daniel, USMC, on Sept. 5, 1942, in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Daniel attended Colby College and graduated from Katharine Gibbs Secretarial School, Providence.

Miss Ethel Mary Driscoll, daughter of Arthur F. Driscoll and Mrs. Driscoll, and Lt. Paul E. Mallory, USA, were married at the Driscoll home in Scarsdale, N. Y., Sept. 27, 1942. Mrs. Mallory is a graduate of Bradford Junior College and belongs to the Scarsdale Unit, New York Junior League. Lt. Mallory is a Dartmouth alumnus.

Oscar W. Rackle is on the staff of the U. S. Army Engineers in Providence, thus returning to the profession for which he prepared in college. He taught civil engineering at Brown for a year, and continued as highway engineer and contractor until he went into business in 1915.

Once again the Class has won the Alumni Fund Trustees' Bowl for making the best record in the Alumni Fund campaign. Fact is, '07 was so far ahead of all other classes in nearly every category that there was small comparison. Present at the Alumni Day party to receive the Bowl from Arthur L. Philbrick '03, chairman of the Alumni Fund Trustees, were President Hurley, President Burnham of the Associated Alumni, McCann, Buckley, Briggs, Clark, Harris, Affleck (president of the Brown Club of Western Maine), Gurney.

Henry W. Corp, Mrs. Corp, and their daughter have all been interned by the Japanese in Manila, according to word from Henry W. Corp, Jr., now in Orange, Tex. Young Corp received a letter about the internment from the State Dept. No report yet about the George Burnhams, but we can hope that they, too, are safe, even if in Japanese hands.

Claude R. Branch was at Jane Brown Hospital, Providence, last month, recovering from a broken rib and fractured vertebra, result of a fall from his horse at Jacob's Hill. That's why Claude was not at the Alumni Day gathering. Vic Schwartz and Bill Reynolds were also on the sick list at that time.

Leslie F. Mowry's son, Leslie F. Mowry, Jr., is in the Navy, stationed at present in Boston. Les was the first to send Al Gurney a card to give report of his son. Have you sent your card to Al at 14 Young Orchard Ave., Providence?

Miss Hope Pearsall, daughter of Harry E. Pearsall and Mrs. Pearsall (Hope Devenish '06, Pembroke College), and Ensign John N. Durrie, USNR, were married in Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 18, 1942. Miss Rosamond Pearsall attended her sister. Mrs. Durrie is a graduate of Radcliffe College; Mr. Durrie of Princeton. He is executive officer, Naval Training School, Bedford Springs, Pa.

Miss Dorothy Mae Streeter, daughter of Rev. Merrick L. Streeter and Mrs. Streeter, and John B. Leach of Warwick, R. I., were married in South Baptist Church, Providence, Sept. 26, 1942. The bride's brother-in-law, Rev. D. C. Tuttle, performed the ceremony, and Miss Mary Wealthy Streeter, senior at Pembroke College, attended her sister.

Lt. William S. Oman, Army Air Forces, son of Benjamin G. Oman and Mrs. Oman of 203 Prospect Ave., Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Miss Phyllis Lawrence Greer, daughter of William M. Greer, also of Mt. Vernon, were married Sept. 23, 1942. Ben was best man for his son, who was with Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. before joining the Army. Lt. Oman is instructor in aviation at Albany, Ga.

Leonard S. Little, manager of the Textile Service Section, E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., with his office at 40 Worth St., New York, is settled in the fine old farm house that he remodelled during the spring and summer in New Milford, Conn., where his address is RFD No. 1, Long Mountain.

New address for Richard A. Sanders is 490 Angell St., Providence. Dick is with Industrial Trust Co. He's been trying to get back into the Navy, in which he served in the First World War, but his birth date so far is against him.

Dr. Harlan T. Stetson of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is co-author with Dr. Richard M. Field of Princeton of "Map Reading and Navigation," a book written for emergency courses in pre-aviation training and on the fall list of Van Nostrand & Co., publishers, New York. Dr. Field is a former member of the Brown Faculty in the Geology Dept.

Rev. Dr. Albert C. Thomas has been re-elected to the Board of Managers of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society. He is also a Baptist delegate to the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

John J. Cooney, special assistant to Rhode Island's Attorney General, John H. Nolan '15, made the keynote speech at the State Democratic Convention in late September.

J. Donald Pryor is reported to have deserted Narragansett Pier to make Florida his year-round home.

Your Secretary records with regret the death of Dr. Harry Duffield Clough in Boston, Oct. 1, 1942, and extends to his wife and daughter the sincere sympathy of the Class. Harry and Mrs. Clough were on their way home to Rochester, N. Y., from a vacation on Cape Cod when Harry was stricken. He was assistant medical director of Rochester General Hospital.

Charlie Hughes, Jr., jumped back into the political arena during this fall's campaign to lead the Citizens Committee for Thomas E. Dewey for Governor of New York State. "I am for Tom Dewey because he is clearly the best man," was Charlie's statement, and then he added a clearcut summary of Dewey's "shining record of accomplishment" in the public service. Dewey is Brown '38, honorary.

Miss Prudence Mayhew, younger daughter of Mrs. John W. Mayhew and our late classmate, is a Freshman at Wellesley College.

Jarvis Hart Alger, son of J. Howard Alger and Mrs. Alger of Montreal, Canada, and Miss Eleanor Louise Dower were married in Westerly, Sept. 29, 1942. Mrs. Alger is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ernest Dower of Dunn's Corners, Westerly. Our classmate's son is a Senior at Brown.

Dr. Billy Buffum is vice president of the Rhode Island Children's Heart Association.

Herb Sherwood was obliged to resign as chairman of Providence Civilian Defense Council because of illness. Herb did a real job while he was on it, and his Council testified to it, also "according him full respect and honor for an achievement which has been a notable contribution to the civilian tasks of this global war."

C. F. (Chick) Butterworth, replying to a query from the Alumni Office, said he was still getting his mail at 2047 County St., Somerset, Mass.

Miss Jane Bartlett Thomas and Harold Minot Pitman, Jr., son of H. Minot Pitman and Mrs. Pitman of Stonington, Conn., and Bronxville, N. Y., and a reporter on the Providence Journal, were married at Grace Episcopal Church, Providence, Oct. 10, 1942. The bridegroom's father was best man. Mrs. Pitman is the daughter of Mrs. Pauline DeW. B. Thomas and Arthur A. Thomas of Providence.

Elmer S. Horton has been elected a director of the Providence Y.M.C.A., one more civic responsibility assumed by this busy citizen.

Henry M. Burke has had three sons in service since war began, and has lost one of them—Paul Moy Burke, instructor in the Army Air Forces, who was killed in action when a plane crashed Dec. 12, 1941. David M. Burke is Ensign, USNR., and Maurice M. Burke, graduate of Taft School '41, is Pvt., Army Air Forces. Burke, Sr., is also contributing to the war effort as general manager of Dutchess Bleachery, Wappingers Falls, N. Y.

Samuel R. Parks is the new general supervisor of schools of Fall River in charge of visual education, science, "and any other administrative work which may be assigned later." Sam and his son Paul of Central Congregational Church were co-chairmen of the 1942 Inter-Church and Y.M.C.A. Father and Son dinner at Union Methodist Church, Fall River, which brought together 350 fathers and sons from Protestant churches and Temple Beth-El.

Capt. Wiley H. Marble was ordered in mid-October to report at the end of the month to Columbus, O., for active duty with the Army. "Engineers, I assume, but that's all I can report," he said in his letter. "Last ARP meeting, Oct. 20, and then two of us, my first deputy and I, turn in our pretty helmets, books, supplies, and forget the whole thing. It's been quite a chore for nine months, and at least I've left a going concern." In the First World War, Wiley made a splendid record as officer with the 6th Engineers, Third Division, which fought all the way from the Marne to Germany and which was part of the Army of Occupation.

After 12 years as a member of East Providence Town Council, of which he has been President in recent years, Leon E. Smith was candidate this year on the Republican ticket for the Board of Tax Assessors. As East Providence is normally Republican, Leon's election seemed assured.

Preston H. Hood and Mrs. Hood of Somerset, Mass., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Phyllis Hood, to Pfc. William C. Crossley, Jr., of the Coast Artillery. The wedding took place in the chapel of First Methodist Church, Middletown, Conn., Oct. 2. Mrs. Crossley attended Skidmore College and is a graduate of Katharine Gibbs Secretarial School. Pvt. Crossley, whose father is District Attorney of Bristol County, Massachusetts, went to University of Michigan.

Miss Emma Dean Larkin, daughter of Lt. Comdr. Daniel F. Larkin, USNR, and Mrs. Larkin of Watch Hill, R. I., and Lt. John H. Scanlon, USA, of Westerly, were married in Westerly, Oct. 9, 1942. member of an advisory board to serve WPB "in matters concerning medical and surgical rubber goods."

Henry G. Marsh was Republican candidate for the Providence City Council from Ward One at the election this month. "For many years an insurance broker and widely known in local business circles," said the Evening Bulletin biography. Heime has been an active Republican worker more years than he cares to recall.

First Lt. William J. Reed, formerly with Industrial Trust Co., Providence, was graduated last month from the Special Brookley Field Army Air Corps Supply School in Alabama.

Ira Lloyd Letts, maintaining that the American people wanted "a more unified command in both the military and industrial fields of the war and a Congress that would function and discharge its duties with great vigor and effectiveness," was making a vigorous fight for election as U. S. Senator from Rhode Island on the Republican ticket as we wrote this paragraph on Oct. 19. Opposing Senator Theodore Francis Green '87, Ira carried the fight to all parts of the State.

Leroy E. Loxley is with Federal Housing Authority, Seattle, Wash., where his house address is 7350 Empire Way.

Ralph E. Burnham, salesman engineer for Textile Finishing Machinery Co. of Providence, writes his preferred mail address is still 306 High St., Passaic, N. J.

Duncan Langdon, former chairman of the Republican City Committee, was a candidate this fall for State Senator from the First Providence District.

Russ Ashbaugh, son of Russell G. (Busty) Ashbaugh, captain of the Brown football team in 1912 and one of the best ends of his time, is a back on the Notre Dame eleven.

F. R. (Fritz) Hazard has been down at the Fighter Command School, Orlando, Fla., for the past two months. "No rank as yet," was the report a month ago from The Stamp Shop, Fritz's headquarters in Providence.

Alexander A. Gardner is chairman of the entertainment committee of the Brown University Club in New York. Alex and his aides put on a fine Fall Victory Dinner at the clubhouse last month, with Capt. Hartzell Spence, USA, executive editor of Yank, the Army's newspaper, and Capt. George H. Bowdew, USN, retired, former commandant of the NROTC at Brown, as speakers.

Francis W. Post has announced the marriage of his daughter, Miss Avis T. Post, to Harry E. Andrews of Meshanticut Park, R. I., Oct. 16, 1942. Mrs. Andrews is studying at Rhode Island College of Education; Mr. Andrews has entered the U. S. Army.

Pierce H. Bereton, Providence lawyer and resident of Warwick, has accepted commission as Lt. Comdr., USNR, to report early this month for aviation duties at Quonset Naval Air Station.

Rhode Island Attorney General John H.

Dr. Merrill of Paris

► WHETHER or not Dr. Theodore C. Merrill of the staff of the American Hospital, Neuilly, France, was being held as a hostage or had been released by the Nazis after a short confinement was in doubt as this paragraph was written in mid-October. Last May the United Press spoke of a Dr. John Merrill being held "against the safety of German nationals in the United States." First despatches this fall said that our Dr. Merrill (1896) had been taken in the Gestapo's wholesale roundup of Americans in the Paris area.

In late August the New York Times had reported from Vichy that he was one of four American medical men exempted from the ruling which forbade foreigners to practice in France. The reason was "notable service to the French State." ◀

Nolan was again a candidate for the office on the Democratic ticket this fall.

Dr. George W. Waterman is a newly elected member of the Board of Governors, The University Club, Providence, to serve until 1945.

1916

When Charles J. Hill stepped down as president of The University Club, Providence, in September after two years of genuine service, he left the Club in sound condition, with a fair net income for the fiscal year 1941-42 and with a membership roll nearly equal to the totals of the preceding year. In these times that is an accomplishment in which Charlie (as well as his co-workers) has found satisfaction.

Miss M. Jacqueline Palmer, daughter of John P. Palmer and Mrs. Palmer, and Ensign Edward C. Ambler, USNR, were married in the Stockbridge, Mass., Congregational Church, Oct. 4, 1942. Thomas H. Davenport, Brown '44, son of Elmer F. Davenport, was an usher. Mrs. Ambler is a graduate of Northfield Seminary and Beaver College; Ensign Ambler has his degree from Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

Paul N. Swaffield, president of Boston Chapter, Eastern Intercollegiate Football Officials' Association, came back to Providence one night in October to take part in a football clinic held by the Rhode Island Association of Football Officials. He dealt particularly with the duties and problems of the referee, stressing the facts that officials should have team play of their own and should know how to talk to captains of opposing elevens before the game began.

Everett G. Perkins is on the sales staff of J. Arthur Warner Co., investments, 89 Devonshire St., Boston. He continues active in civic affairs in his home city of Newburyport, Mass., where he lives at 14 Parsons St.

Stanley A. Ward, teacher and director of Athletics at The Hill School, Pottstown, Pa., has been commissioned Captain, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve. In the First World War, Stan was Lieutenant, Battery C., 103rd F.A., 26th Division, taking part in all the major engagements of that war with the A.E.F. in France.

Robert T. Staples is living at 2702 Love Field Drive, Dallas, Tex., according to Ed Knights, who went hunting for Bob about the time of our 25th Reunion last spring.

Your Secretary records with regret the death of Raymond Wilmont Sheldon at his home, 835 School St., Webster, Mass., Oct. 15, 1942, and extends to his wife and son the earnest sympathy of the Class. Ray, who won commission as Lieutenant in the First World War, was president of Times Publishing Co., publisher of the Webster Evening Times, vice president of the Massachusetts Press Association, and of the Webster Five Cents Savings Bank and Webster District Hospital. He was also prominent as Mason and Rotarian, being a charter member and past president of Webster Rotary Club.

Earl M. Pearce and his family are now living at 46 Boylston Ave., Providence.

Rowland R. Hughes, comptroller of the National City Bank of New York, writes his preferred mail address is 220 Madison Ave., New York.

Frederick H. Bontecou was candidate this fall on the Republican ticket for New York State Senator from the 28th District, including Columbia, Dutchess and Putnam Cos. He was in the State Senate from 1934 to 1938, retiring to run for Lieutenant Governor.

1918

Lt. Col. Zenas R. Bliss, USA, home on a short and unexpected furlough in late September, gave us his correct address as 1st Sp. Tr. Battalion (Prob), IV Army Corps, Camp Shelby, Miss. Army life agrees with Zene, as he was looking his best when we saw him in Providence.

Two members of the Class were in the thick of the Rhode Island political campaign as the editor was calling for this copy. Charlie Eden was Republican candidate for Congress from the First Congressional District, and Roswell S. Bosworth was running on the Republican ticket for Secretary of State.

Chauncey T. Langdon, commercial agent of U. S. Dept. of Commerce in Boston, lives at 1716 Cambridge St., but reports his preferred mail address is 1800 Custom House, Boston.

At the last meeting of the Northern Baptist Convention he was chairman of the Rhode Island State delegation. He has just retired as President of the Rhode Island Baptist State Convention.

Gurney Edwards is the new Chairman of Rhode Island Branch of the Foreign Policy Association. Gurney is also President of Children's Friend Society, Recording Secretary of Providence Y.M.C.A., and Vice-President of the Rhode Island State Congregational Conference.

Assistant Dean Edgar J. Lanpher left College Hill on Sept. 30 to report as Captain, Army Air Forces, at Officer Training

"Sea, or a Whale?"

Dr. Edmund Cody Burnett '90, sending back his Alumni Trustee ballot, made this characteristic note at the bottom when we asked him for personal news: "Am I a sea, or a whale, that thou testest watch over me? What is one scion of Old Brown that thou art mindful of him, or one chip off the old block that thou considerest him?"

School, Miami, Fla. Later he will go to the Air Intelligence School, Harrisburg, Pa. Before he said goodbye to Brown he received a set of military brushes engraved "To Captain E. J. Lanpher from the students of Brown, September, 1942."

Recently commissioned as Lieutenants, USNR, have been William H. Edwards and Warren R. (Soup) Campbell. Bill Edwards resigned as Chairman of the Selective Service Board of Appeal for Rhode Island to join the Naval Reserve. While he was Chairman, the Board considered more than 2400 cases.

H. George Harris is an instructor at Pace Institute, New York, and a resident of Crestwood, N. Y., where he lives at 55 Hollywood Ave.

Fred B. Perkins was keynote speaker at the 1942 Republican State Convention in Providence. The Providence Journal quoted his five-point program for winning the war and said that he "decried plowing under the ideals of the founders, which has brought us to our present unhappy state." Fred called for a united command to win the war, a real United Nations instead of "a lyric phrase," clear and timely leadership that gives no thought to political expediency, a reconstructed Cabinet that would contain the best qualified men, and promotion and utilization of America's strength rather than hiding gold in the ground and plowing under crops.

C. Lawrence Evans recently took over as comptroller of Dawson Chemical Corp., Baltimore, Md., where he and his family are now living at 228 Tunbridge Rd. Larry Evans, Jr., is a student this year at Portsmouth Priory School.

Earle L. Swift is sales manager of Remington Rand, Inc., 228 Weybosset St., Providence, and lives at 17 First St., Attleboro, Mass.

Louis Smith is New England sales manager of The Rauh Co., Cincinnati, with his office at 26 Kingston St., Boston, and his home at 193 Rawson Rd., Brookline, Mass.

Al Hindmarsh's son George played a heads-up game at end on the Brown eleven in the games against Rhode Island State and Columbia. He snared touchdown passes in those early games, and earned a starting berth against Lafayette. "He is a 185 pound, 6 ft. 2 in. Junior who comes from Cranston and prepared at Cranston High and Mt. Hermon," Joe Nutter '24 described him in the Providence Evening Bulletin.

New business address for Ralph K. Rogers is 342 Madison Ave., New York.

1920

Bruce Coulter, back at his work at Cranbrook School, Birmingham, Mich., writes: "Things are fine here except that, with the enlisting of our coach, I have to take care of football—which is a blow for the school as well as for me." Bruce and his family spent the summer on their farm in Shrewsbury, back in the hills west of Cuttingsville, Vt.

Back on a Horse

▶ WILLIAM H. LYNN '10 returned to the Broadway stage last month to play his original role of meek Erwin Trowbridge in a revival of the farce "Three Men on a Horse," and once more scored heavily as the slightly dazed young man "from Ozone Heights who tried to write greeting card verses and pick the ponies simultaneously." According to reviewer Howard Barnes in the New York Herald Tribune, Billy "has little of the bewilderment which made the character so humorously sympathetic half a dozen years ago, but he stamps the show with whatever authority it still has." ◀

Benton B. Orweig is director of sales for the Architectural Record, with his office at 119 West 40th St., and his home at 116 East 56th St., New York.

Maj. Marshall N. Fulton, MC, USA, on duty at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, was named as Associate in Medicine, Harvard Medical School, by the Harvard Board of Overseers in June. But his Army commission interrupted. Marshall has been affiliated with the Medical School in several capacities since 1929.

Walter Hoving is a Director of the American Arbitration Association which has set up a War Service Committee in consideration of the even greater importance today of settling commercial disputes with speed, economy, and justice. The Association's literature quotes the former Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes '81 as saying: "The influence of arbitral arrangements and judicial institutions is far greater than their service in disposing of particular differences. The fact that there is a court, a facile recourse to arbitral procedures or judicial remedy, makes actual resort to such processes the less necessary, because the spirit of fairness and accord is cultivated."

Benjamin R. Curtis has been commissioned Lieutenant, USNR, at Boston. During the First World War he was 2nd Lt., Infantry, U. S. Army.

Dr. Leonard P. Sayles is Assistant Professor of Biology, College of the City of New York, and lives at 81 Rose Ave., Floral Park.

The First General

► FIRST Brown man to reach the rank of Brigadier General in this Second World War is Francis W. Rollins '16, former commander of the 103rd Field Artillery, 43rd Division, and part of the fighting 26th (Yankee) Division in the First World War. Inducted into Federal service in February, 1941, he is the first Rhode Island National Guard officer to wear the General's star.

As a private in old Battery A. R.I.N.G., Rollins took part in the punitive expedition to Mexico in 1916, went to officer training camp when this country entered the First World War in 1917, rose to be Captain, and fought in five major engagements with the AEF. After the war he organized Battery A, and rose to command the 103rd FA Regiment. He led the artillerymen to Camp Blanding, Fla., but was reassigned when the unit was divided into two artillery battalions, the 103rd and the 169th, to streamline the division at Camp Shelby, Miss., last February. When he was promoted to Brigadier General by President Roosevelt late in September, he was executive officer of the 43rd Division Artillery Staff.

In civilian life, Gen. Rollins was an investment broker in Providence. His son, Francis W. Rollins, Jr., '40, is an officer in the Army Finance Department, to which he went after a course at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

Auction, Scrap, Hay

► FOOTBALL auctioneer, movie actor, award winner, lecturer — Quentin Reynolds '24 doesn't know what a minute to one's self means these days. At the Brown-Columbia football game he sold the football for War Bonds. On the same day he also received a picture of the Brown Herald trophy given for "distinguished literary achievement." The reason why he got the picture instead of the cup was because the cup had gone to the scrap heap "to do its part," as the Herald patriotically said, "to aid the United Nations' war cause."

Soon, the Hollywood columnists say, he will be out there among the blondes, brunettes, and strong, but not too silent men to appear in the prologue to the picture to be made from his book "Only the Stars Are Neutral." Report is that 20th Century-Fox paid him $150,000 for the movie rights which, as Quentin himself would say, "is not hay." Then he has won the October Man-of-the-Month Award of the Advertising Club of New York, and has been lecturing before the Seraphic Secretaries and other clubs and groups on his adventures in the Dieppe raid. Between times, he does write pieces for Collier's, and may, for all we know, have another book in the typing. ◀

Joe Buonanno, having volunteered his services without pay to his old friend and coach, Denny Myers, now head man at Boston College, is aiding Denny as coach and scout during the present football season. Joe is in business, but he is giving all his spare time away from it to his football chores.

Cpl. Robert D. Whitaker, former reporter on the Providence Journal, is attached to the Second Army Public Relations Office, according to his old paper which recently printed a picture of Bob "broadcasting a Maneuver Newscast over a Tennessee station."

Harry R. Kurtz, Jr., is treasurer of Har-Ben Hardware Co., 749 N. W. 62nd St., Miami, Fla., where his mail address is 530 N. E. 73rd St.

Dr. Allen E. Hastings is at the Naval Experimenting Laboratory, Washington, D. C., we hear, and rates as an associate physicist. Our correspondent adds that Al may soon receive commission as Lieutenant, USNR.

First Lt. Richard Rice, MC, USA, has completed the course at Medical Field Service School, Carlisle Barracks, Pa., and is ready for duty with troops.

"Thomas B. Casey, Guest Photographer" was the caption of an illustrated story about Tom and his work in the Artgraveure Section, Providence Sunday Journal, Sept. 27. Tom, who is chief of the division of examiners of the Rhode Island State Health Dept., began taking pictures while he was in college. He has exhibited in this country and in Europe, has won various medals, and keeps right on hunting down subjects and experiments with them in different ways. His Journal interviewer described him as "an active member of the Camera Club of the Providence Engineering Society, where he served as president and on the board of trustees."

Under the caption of "R. I. Boys in the Caribbean," a Journal correspondent wrote not long ago: "A couple of months after we arrived in this sector, we were introduced to a first lieutenant named William T. Joyce, Jr. So then we promptly proceeded to forget all about the officer. Then we learned that Lt. Joyce is not only a native Rhode Islander, but a graduate of Brown University as well. 'Tis a small world after all, as the w.k. saying goes."

Cyril Owen is in the Credit Dept., Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co., Milwaukee, Wis., and in his leisure time rides his hobby as organist and choir director of Tabernacle Baptist Church.

Art Felton, 2nd, USA, tells his own story since he enlisted as a buck private, Army Air Forces, in August, 1941: "Four months at Mather Field, Calif., as an airplane mechanic, and then went to Air Corps Photography School, Denver. Graduated, and assigned to Williams Field, Ariz. Made Cpl., then Sgt. Took a competitive exam for Warrant Officer, and received my warrant Sept. 15. Haven't found out what a Warrant Officer is supposed to do. . . . Hope to be snapping pictures of what will be called 'Formerly Tokio' from the air. Brought a wife down here (Arizona) on Aug. 8, and have been trying to explain to her ever since. Would like to hear from any of the boys any time at 13 Temple Place, Mesa, Ariz."

Coburn A. Buxton is manager of the Dallas, Tex., Office of National Transits, Inc., transportation advertising, 1303 Dallas National Bank Bldg. He and Mrs.

On the Other Bench

► FOR the first time a Brown man, and a coach at that, sat on the Rhode Island State bench when Brown and State met in football this fall. "Bob Mangiante '37 is one of the few Brown graduates ever to return as a member of a rival coaching staff in varsity football," Joe Nutter '24 wrote in the Providence Evening Bulletin. "He is certainly the first in many, many years. Bob was a varsity letter man in football and wrestling at Brown. He is the current varsity assistant to Paul Cieurzo at State."

Buxton, the former Elisabeth Alden Littlefield, are at home at Dorset Rd., and Lenox Lane, Route 7, Dallas.

Ken Hampson is on the field staff of Public Administration Service as personnel consultant, with his headquarters at 1313 East 60th St., Chicago. When he wrote in late September he had just finished a job helping set up a civil service program in Kansas, and was in St. Louis to install a personnel department for the city. Ken was personnel director at Esmond Mills, Esmond, R. I., before he went to his present post.

Rev. Bertram E. Humphries, replying to your correspondent's letter about his pitching a winning game for Albany of the Eastern League in September, said: "It was a grand experience, and for a brief while it made me homesick for the old game. I love to throw — you know that. I had an 'on night' against Springfield. Couldn't do anything wrong, it seemed." Bert is minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Baldwinville, N. Y., and says he enjoys his work very much. The church has 400 on its rolls, with between 160 and 180 in attendance on a Sunday morning.

First Lt. William H. Vail, 2nd, MC, USA, was killed with six others when an Army bomber crashed against the Kittatinny Mts. near Blairstown, N. J., the evening of Sept. 20. To Bill's wife and to all the members of his family the Class has expressed its deep sympathy.

Ambulance from Tobruk

► FREE HERSEY '38, in a fairly recent letter to K. Brooke Anderson, told of his experiences with the American Field Service attached to the British Middle East Army while working out of Tobruk before the Nazis took it. During the retreat, Free had four stretcher patients in his ambulance. He helped in an operating room dug out of a South African hospital tent unit, and finally got back to the safety zone, hungry, dirty, but still able to eat and wash up.

He was an interne at Pawtucket Memorial Hospital when his commission came.

Donald O. Starrett has moved from Jackson Heights to 43-36 169th St., Flushing, N. Y., and Richard W. Pearce's new address is 12 Bradford Rd. Cranston.

Jim Lathrop, your correspondent's able assistant in getting together this batch of notes about '38, is still with Babcock & Wilcox Co., Marine Dept., "trying to keep boilers going in ships as fast as the ships go down the ways."

Lt. (jg) James W. Gurll, USNR, is on duty at Naval Net School, Tiburon, Calif., "under instruction in net (anti-submarine) tending." Jim wrote as he was leaving Chicago in late September, saying that Mrs. Gurll would join him there and go with him by train to San Francisco. "She's sold the car and moved out of 210 Waterman St., Providence," he added. "I'm pulling for the football team and will try to spread the good word about it on the Coast."

Maybe Bob Thomas will amplify this item from Jim Lathrop's dope sheet: "Bob graduated from Officer Training School last spring, went to the hills of Mississippi, and more recently to Baltimore. And just lately . . .?"

"Antone Singsen, the old Brown jumping star, is still in competition," wrote Joe Nutter '24 in a recent Evening Bulletin column. "He made a jump of 22 ft. 4½ in. in the 25th annual Connecticut A.A.U. meet this fall and won his event. He competes for the New Haven Harriers."

Down Went Five Zeros

►► HOME from the wars as Brown and Rhode Island's first ace of the Second World War came Capt. David R. McGovern '37, Army Air Forces, for a short leave in mid-September. His was a story of "blood and sweat—but no tears—hot from the flaming, fighting fronts of New Guinea, where as part of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's air force he shot down five Jap Zeros," wrote George E. Pelletier in the Providence Journal. "His months of experience in Northern Australia, and in the actions at Port Moresby, Rabaul, Lae and Milne Bay have taught him two things—first, that the Japs are tough fighters; second, that the Yanks are tougher. . . . But it won't do to underrate the Japs."

Dave shot down his first Jap Zero "just after the enemy raided Townsville in Northern Australia." He accounted for his second and third in the Port Moresby area, caught dengue fever and was out of action for days, and then came back to nip two Zeros the same day while his squadron was on "protective escort mission." Thus, with five enemy planes to his credit, did he win his title of ace. His squadron was the first American fighter unit to go into action against the Japanese in the Southwest Pacific.

Trained at Randolph and Kelly Fields, Dave won his wings in May, 1940, along with Parker S. Dupouy '39, one of the "Flying Tigers" of China fame. He was an observer in England in 1941, met King George VI and Queen Elizabeth at Buckingham Palace, came back to Hills Grove last December, and then headed westward to fight in earnest. His trip home on an Army transport plane took just 50 hours' flying time—fast enough to satisfy even Dave.

CAPT. DAVID R. MCGOVERN: Take away five Zeros.

David E. Evans was ordained as deacon in the Protestant Episcopal Church by Rt. Rev. James DeWolf Perry '12, honorary, at St. John's Cathedral, Providence, Sept. 30, and shortly thereafter assumed charge of St. John's Church, Ashton. Assisting in the ceremony was Dave's father, Rev. Irving A. Evans, headmaster of St. Andrew's School, Barrington, whom Bishop Perry also ordained. It is the first time during Bishop Perry's administration of the Diocese of Rhode Island (covering a period of 30 years) that he has received father and son into the ministry.

Al Bloomingdale, theatrical producer, "is back at his offices in the Empire Theatre Bldg., and has set up shop for the new season," said a recent paragraph in the New York Herald Tribune. "At the moment there is no work that has caught his fancy. He is, however, looking for a farce and possibly a musical comedy." Report has it that Al, who spent the summer months working at Iroquois Amphitheatre, Louisville, Ky., on musical comedy and operetta, has an interest in "Let Freedom Ring," the American Youth Theatre revue.

Lt. Ernest E. Alderman, USA, has written us a fine letter from "somewhere in the Pacific Ocean," saying that he has been on active duty for a long time and is "slowly getting acclimated to this habitat." Ernie went on: "The winter season has just ended and I must say that what there was of it was very transient and fleeting. . . . The place itself is a true paradise for a two weeks' vacation, but not for a prolonged stay. The nature settings are breathtaking and unusual in their design, and far more beautiful than I ever imagined could exist. . . . On the way out I was thankful I am a good swimmer, but fortunately I did not get a chance to practice." Ernie spoke of his nine-months old daughter and wife at home, and said "a great enemy that we have all had to conquer has been loneliness. But you would be extremely surprised at the wonderful spirit our men have; it really is grand."

Fred Moury is an electrical engineer with General Electric Co., living at 165 Burnmont Rd, Drexel Hill, Pa. There's a new daughter, Caroline Frances Moury, born last Aug. 19, and Fred and his wife are already thinking about Caroline's college education.

Ensign John S. Davison, USNR, wrote in mid-September from Holderness, N. H.: "I was admitted to the bar of the State of New York in June, 1942. I have not started a law practice and will not until after the present emergency. . . . I expect to be called to active duty within the next 30 days."

Joe Blessing received his commission as 2nd Lt., Army Air Forces, at Army Flying School, Midland, Tex., late in September.

Truth and Fiction ◀ ◀

For Your Bookshelf

▶ ▶ THE Brown bookshelf has two new engrossing and totally different additions—"No Day of Triumph" by J. Saunders Redding '28, and "East of Farewell" by Howard Hunt '40. Redding's book, of which Harper & Bros. are publishers, is this poet and teacher's report of what he has learned about his own people during nearly two years of rambling study through the South.

"An eloquent, moving recital," W. T. Scott '31 called it in the Providence Sunday Journal. "'No Day of Triumph' is many things: an account of a trip among Southern Negroes, a sympathetic inquiry into the Negro 'problem'; a discovery of the complexities of the race, the problems within the race. . . . It is an anthology of different types of Negroes and different types of view among them." His student days at Brown get passing reference.

Prof. Ben C. Clough says that "East of Farewell" is the most real-sounding and most exciting narrative I have read of the present war, and I have already read many, being no more able than most to resist this particular painful fascination. . . . It has everything that stories of the war should have, and usually don't."

Herbert Clyde Lewis in New York Herald Tribune Books told how Hunt wrote the story while he was convalescing from injuries received in line of duty with Naval Reserves on North Atlantic patrol and went on: "'East of Farewell' is a story of his own experience, an experience Mr.

Hunt never dreamed he would endure while playing in a dance band in college only a few years ago. It is, in brief, the story of one modern American destroyer and four old four-stackers convoying a group of freighters across the difficult, storm-tossed waters of the North Atlantic to England. . . . It is a book to read if you want to know how it feels to convoy a cluster of freighters to England." Alfred A. Knopf is the publisher.

HOWARD HUNT: "To know how it feels."

Second Lt. Samuel M. Gourse, Quartermaster Corps, USA, is attached to the Army Air Base, Orlando, Fla. Mrs. Gourse, who was Dorothy J. ► ARTHUR TRAIN BELKNAP, A.B., A.M., S.T.B., D.D., retired educator, born Framingham, Mass., Feb. 8, 1872, the son of Comer A. and Rebecca J. (Hosmer) Belknap; died of a heart attack in Spokane, Wash., May 2, 1942, while on his way from California to his summer home in Alfred, Me.

"He commanded respect everywhere for his clear mind, honest thinking, and courteous demeanor. He has been an honor to Alma Mater," a contemporary has written. And another said in the Watchman-Examiner: "Besides being a valuable man in the field of education, Dr. Belknap was first and always a Christian gentleman."

His career was a busy and varied one. At Brown he was a fine student, winning election to Phi Beta Kappa, and was a leader in the Y.M.C.A. and House of Commons. After graduation from Newton Theological Institution in 1896, he became minister of the First Baptist Church, Sanford, Me. Then he took a bachelor of theology degree at Harvard, and served the First Baptist Church, Andover, Mass., and Jefferson Street Baptist Church, Providence, before leaving the pulpit to teach.

In 1907 he became Professor of English at Franklin College, Franklin, Ind. He also served Franklin as Dean and as Acting President. He was President of Grand Island College in Nebraska for a year, resigning in 1920 to go to State Teachers College, Mansfield, Pa., as Dean of Instruction. In 1936-37 he was Acting President. He retired from his duties as dean in June, 1941. He wrote articles for educational and religious journals, was a member of Mansfield Boro Council and Mansfield Business Men's Association, moderator of Tioga Baptist Association, deacon of Mansfield Baptist Church, prominent in Masonry.

► ► SAMUEL LE NORD CALDWELL, A.B., A.M., M.D., last surviving member of the Class, born Bangor, Me., June 6, 1853, the son of Rev. Samuel Lunt Caldwell, D.D., and Mary LeNord (Richards) Caldwell; died in Honolulu, T. H., Sept. 2, 1942. His father, second President of Vassar College, was Trustee and Fellow of Brown for 30 years, and was Secretary of the Corporation during half that time. He was descended from John Caldwell, settler in Ipswich, Mass., about 1640.

Dr. Caldwell's wife, Mrs. Annie G. (Wells) Cook Caldwell, was a student at Vassar College when his father was President. The marriage took place Oct. 10, 1910, and Mrs. Caldwell died in 1931. She and her husband were inseparable travelers for years.

When he was nearing his 87th birthday, Dr. Caldwell wrote the Alumni Office, asking for a copy of his obituary with the characteristic comment: "I ought to be putting things in order, so as to hole the last putt without rimming the cup." Thus did he put on record his interest in golf, his favorite game, which he introduced to Colorado Springs, Colo., and which he played until a few years ago.

After graduation from Brown, he went to Colorado to visit friends on ranches near Hugo, and was there during the last Cheyenne Indian raid through eastern Colorado. He won his M.D. at the Medical School, University of Pennsylvania, in 1882, studied for a year at University of Vienna, and commenced practice in Providence. In 1890 he removed to Colorado Springs. In that city, where he lived until he made his last trip to Hawaii in 1940, he was Secretary-Treasurer of the Town and Gown Golf Club, and Food Inspector for the Health Department in the years preceding the First World War.

As travelers, he and Mrs. Caldwell were frequent visitors to Europe. They also knew Australia, New Zealand, the South Sea Islands, and much of the Far East. For a considerable number of years they went annually to Hawaii. . . . Dr. Caldwell was a member of Zeta Psi, Sons of the American Revolution, Society of Colonial Wars, and a former member of Rhode Island and El Paso County Medical Societies.

► REV. GEORGE RICHARD ATHA, A.B., Baptist minister, born Huddersfield, England, Jan. 16, 1868, the son of Andrew and Mary (Brook) Atha; died of a heart attack in Groton, Conn., Aug. 3, 1942. For 36 years he had been pastor of Groton Heights Baptist Church, "beloved not only by his congregation but by all who came in contact with him."

Groton borough counted him among its first citizens. "He was interested in the Boy Scout movement and for many years was actively engaged in this work," said the New London Day, recounting his civic record. "He was prominent in the activities of Groton branch of the Red Cross, held office in the Baptist State Convention, and was for many years secretary of Groton-Mystic Lions Club. Years ago he served as Republican auditor of the town of Groton, in the days when one member of each of the two major political parties was selected to audit the town's books." Then, too, he was chairman of Groton borough welfare committee, directing the packing and distribution of baskets of food and gifts at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

In college George Atha played on the class football team in Freshman and Sophomore years, and was on the class gymnastic team, appeared in the Corliss operettas, and belonged to Cammorian Club. His fraternity was Zeta Psi. In Groton he was honorary chaplain of Perkins Post, G.A.R., and of the Sons of Veterans.

After graduation from Brown he studied theology for a year at University of Chicago, transferred to Newton Theological Institution, won his diploma there in 1898, and became a Baptist minister in June of that year. After five years in Fall River (Third Baptist and Broadway Baptist Chapel), he came to Providence as assistant to Rev. Dr. Henry M. King at the First Baptist Church. In September, 1906, he began his long and happy pastorate at Groton. On Oct. 5, 1898, he married Mary Abi Knight, who survives, with two sons, Dr. Henry G. Atha '27 of Thomaston, Conn., Andrew K. Atha of Groton, and two grandchildren.

► REV. JOHN FRANKLIN WATTS, A.B., D.D., who died at his country home in White Marsh, Md., April 29, 1942, began his career as Baptist minister in Sioux City, Ia., in 1898, and ended it in Plymouth, Mass., in 1938. "His qualities of character and equipment of mind might well serve as a standard of requirement for the Baptist ministry," a correspondent has said of him. He was born in Portland, Me., Nov. 28, 1869.

After graduation from Brown, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, he entered Rochester Theological Seminary, won his diploma in 1898 and accepted a call to the First Baptist Church, Sioux City. Minister there for seven years, he built up the membership and cleared the church debt. Then he served in turn the First Baptist Churches of Fairbury, Neb., Northampton, Mass., Lawrence, Kan., and Plymouth, Mass. When he retired in 1938 and went to Baltimore, he and Mrs. Watts joined University Baptist Church "and soon won a large place in the affections of the congregation. Dr. Watts supplied this pulpit on many occasions and was summer pastor."

Wherever he went—and his churches were usually in educational centres—he was a leader. He was president of Iowa State Baptist Conference and of the Nebraska and Kansas Baptist State Conventions. He was also president of the Kansas School of Religion, vice president of the Council of Churches, dean of Lawrence, Kan., teacher training school, director of the Lawrence Social Service League, and lecturer on social problems at Grand Island College, Neb. At Ottawa University, from which he received the honorary degree of D.D. in 1931, he was a trustee and chairman of the executive committee.

On Sept. 1, 1896, he married M. Amanda Mowry of Fall River, who survives, with two daughters, Helen L. and Florence A. Watts; a son, Franklin M. Watts; a sister and a brother.

► ROSCOE HOSMER BELKNAP, A.B., LL.B., certified public accountant, born Framingham, Mass., Aug. 3, 1876, the son of Comer A. and Rebecca (Hosmer) Belknap; died of a heart ailment at his home in Framingham Center, July 15, 1942. He was a member of the accounting firm of Herbert F. Franch Co., Boston.

After graduation from Brown, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in Junior year, he taught at Woodbridge-Harvard School, New York. Resigning in June, 1898, he returned to Boston to learn the wholesale leather business. He also studied law at nights at Boston Y.M.C.A. Evening Law School, now part of Northeastern University, and received the LL.B. degree in 1907. Since 1910 he had been a public accountant, with certificates for Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

He was a member of the American Institute of Accountants, the National Association of Cost Accountants, and the American and Massachusetts Societies of Certified Public Accountants.

On April 9, 1904, he married Margaret E. Balcom, who survives, with a daughter, Mrs. John F. Raynour, and a son, John B. Belknap. His brother was the late Dr. Arthur T. Belknap '93, retired educator.

► MARCUS WARD LYON, JR., M.D., zoologist, bacteriologist and pathologist, born Rock Island Arsenal, Ill., Feb. 5, 1875, the son of Marcus W. and Lydia A. (Post) Lyon; died of a sudden heart attack in South Bend, Ind., May 19, 1942. A member of Phi Beta Kappa and the Sigma Xi, he held a bachelor's degree from Brown, and the degrees of Sc.M., M.D., and Ph.D. from George Washington University, where he once taught.

He was the author of "Mammals of Indiana," an excellent source book, and of about 160 papers on biological and medical subjects. He was a former president of the American Society of Mammalogists, president and treasurer of the Indiana Academy of Science, a Fellow of the American Academy for the Advancement of Science, past president of St. Joseph County Medical Society and of the University Club, South Bend, and a member of many other scientific societies. His fraternity was Delta Tau Delta. In recent years he had been pathologist of the South Bend Clinic.

On graduation from Brown he entered North Carolina Medical College; but after a year there he moved to Washington, became an aid in the Department of Biology, Division of Mammals, U. S. National Museum, and did post graduate work in zoology at what is now George Washington University. He made field trips for the Museum to Venezuela and other South and Central American countries, and was assistant curator when he resigned in 1912. He was Professor of Bacteriology and Pathology at George Washington University Medical School, and he also taught physiology and bacteriology at Harvard University. During the First World War he served as Captain, Medical Corps, U.S.A., on duty as pathologist at Walter Reed General Hospital. In 1919 he went to the South Bend Clinic as pathologist and at the time of his death was one of Indiana's leading citizens.

On Dec. 31, 1902, he married Martha M. Brewer, M.D., who died earlier this year. Surviving are a daughter, Charlotte Lyon of Lansdowne, Pa., and two brothers, Henry S. Lyon and Col. James W. Lyon, U.S.A. Dr. Lyon was buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

► CAPT. GEORGE WARREN DAVID, Ph.B., officer of the U. S. Coast Guard since September, 1902, died in Seattle, Wash., Jan. 20, 1942, less than a month after his retirement under the law. By profession a marine engineer, he "went through all the grades in the service with great credit and distinction to himself as well as to the Coast Guard."

"Captain David was not only thought highly of because of his technical knowledge and leadership," wrote Capt. W. H. Munter, former shipmate and friend of long standing, "but he had the happy faculty of making friends and obtaining the loyalty and support of the many people in civilian life with whom he had to deal professionally and socially, as well as his associates within the service. . . . As an engineer officer on ships that I commanded on arduous duty connected with the patrol of ice-infected regions of the Grand Banks, and to opposite conditions in the Pacific. . . . Captain David was always the most dependable person in time of trouble or difficulty."

David was born in New Castle, Del., May 19, 1877, the son of George E. and Virginia (Clayton) David. He entered Brown from Falmouth, Mass., High School, and the love of the sea was then in his blood. In vacation time he worked in engine rooms of merchant vessels and for the U. S. Fish Commission at Woods Hole. Commissioned as cadet in the Coast Guard, Sept. 9, 1902, he passed through all the grades, reaching his majority in April, 1930. He served in Atlantic and Pacific waters, was in Honolulu for 16 months, and for a short time in Alaskan waters. During the First World War he was engineer officer of one of the big transports carrying American soldiers to France and back.

On Nov. 11, 1908, he married Margaret Loomis, who survives, with a son, Lieut. Warren L. David, U.S.C.G., three daughters, Mrs. Philip Morrison, Jr., Mrs. Benjamin R. Holeman, and Mary L. David, and a sister, Mrs. Lewis C. Weeks of Falmouth. He was a Mason, and a member of the Washington Athletic Club, Seattle Yacht Club, Mt. Baker Presbyterian Church, and Alpha Tau Omega.

► BENJAMIN FRANKLIN HAINES, LL.B., who in middle age gave up a public career in Massachusetts to begin all over again in Florida, died in Orlando, July 2, 1942, after a short illness. He had the distinction of being the youngest Mayor of Medford, Mass., and he also served as Mayor of Altamonte Springs, Fla., where he settled in 1922.

Before becoming Medford's Mayor shortly before the First World War, he had been a Republican member of the Massachusetts House for two terms as well as Medford's leading Alderman. After 16 years on the Republican City Committee of Medford, he was candidate for nomination as District Attorney, Middlesex County, but lost. In Altamonte Springs he did duty on the school board, was Mayor two terms, president of Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and of the Citrus Growers' Association, and Colonel on the staff of the Governor of Florida.

Born in Boston, Nov. 25, 1876, the son of John D. and Katherine L. (Phillips) Haines, he left Brown at the end of Freshman year, entered Boston University Law School, won his LL.B. degree, and became a member of the Massachusetts bar in 1899. He went into politics early, and was a dominant figure in the Republican party of Middlesex County for the 10 years preceding his removal to Florida.

On June 11, 1902, he married Carrie Gibbs Bly of New Bedford, who survives, with two sons, Webber B. Haines '27 and Lewis D. M. Haines. He belonged to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, the Masons, in which he was a Shriner and Knights Templar, the Elks, the Rotary Club, and was a director of Sanford State Market and Seminole County Soil Conservation. At the time of his death he owned the Standard Fern Co., and was active as a citrus grower. His fraternity was Alpha Delta Phi.

► WALTER HAYES DETMERS, A.B., retired teacher, born Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 9, 1876, the son of Louis and Eva M. Detmers; died in Buffalo, July 18, 1942, one month after he ended an effective teaching career of 40 years. Since 1915 he had been teacher of advanced mathematics, Academy High School, Erie, Pa.

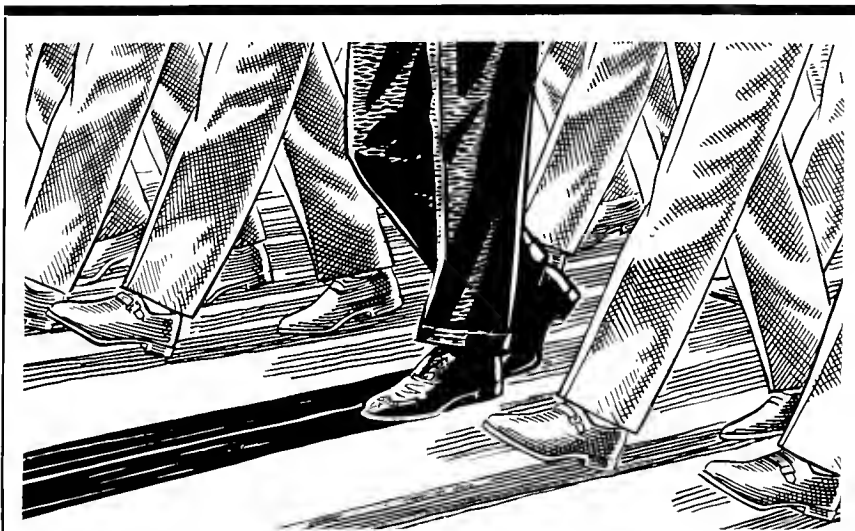

The Erie school board, in a resolution recording his service, took note of his modesty, "his lofty character, charming personality, sincere purpose," and concluded: "He will always rank among the greatest of Erie's teachers." Many of his former pupils will recall him as a strict yet helpful and understanding teacher whose hobbies were stamp collecting and chess, who shared his interest in them with all who were similarly minded, and who had a sympathetic ear and an awareness of their better qualities.

Between his graduation from Brown and his association with Academy High School, Detmers studied at Harvard, taught in Attleboro, Mass., and Donkirk, N. Y., and was a private tutor. While he was tutoring he traveled a great deal, particularly in Europe. During the First World War he was held director of the American Red Cross at Camp Lee, Va.

A bachelor, he is survived by two sisters, Miss Mary E. Detmers and Mrs. Walter Rudolf, and a brother, Sidney Detmers. He organized the Academy High Chess Club, and belonged to the Erie Chess Club. His fraternity was Beta Theta Pi.

Sept. 11, 1942, while visiting his son, Lt. (jg) John B. Moss, USNR. He had taught English at English High School, Boston, from 1912 until his retirement in 1940.

After graduation from Brown, he became a student teacher at Hope High School, and at the same time did graduate work in education under the late Prof. Walter Ballou Jacobs '82. Between 1901 and 1906 he was successively salesman for Armour Packing Co., Kansas City, Mo., clerk for the New Haven Railroad in Boston, and inspector for Boston Woven Hose & Rubber Co., Cambridge. He continued his studies in English literature in absentia under the late Prof. Walter C. Bronson '87, receiving his A.M. degree in 1906.

For two years he taught English at East Providence High School, went back to Hope High for four years, and in 1912 joined the staff of English High School, where he was head of his department when he retired. During 1930-31 he took courses in English literature at University College, London.

On Oct. 31, 1905, he married Harriet Irving Brooks '99, Pembroke College, who died Oct. 24, 1942. Surviving are two sons, Edward I. Moss of Philadelphia and Lt. Moss, and a brother, Associate Justice William W. Moss '94 of the Rhode Island Supreme Court. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Upsilon.

► REV. ANDREW LITTLE FRASER, A.B., who died suddenly of a heart attack in Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 26, 1941, had been minister, missionary, evangelist since being ordained to the Baptist ministry in 1905.

Born in Hawick, Scotland, Aug. 10, 1872, the son of James and Margaret S. (Little) Fraser, he came to Brown from Colby Academy and a private school in Boston. In senior year he was proctor of Maxcy Hall, and Liber Brunensis said that "to his good management we probably owe the absence of 'pink teas' and other such affairs." From Brown he went to Rochester Theological Seminary. While a student there he was pastor of the Baptist Church, Mendon, N. Y.

After six years as missionary in China he came home to take a special course at Bible Teachers' Training School, New York. Then he carried on evangelistic work until he accepted a call to the Stone Church, Chicago. In 1916 he founded Bethel Temple in Chicago, with a creed based on his own beliefs of what a church should be and stand for, and was the Temple leader for many years. In 1922 he visited Sweden on a preaching mission. His last supply was the First Baptist Church, San Jose, Calif.

Fraser edited Light and Truth, a monthly religious journal, and wrote numerous articles and tracts. He had collected material and made notes to write on different Biblical subjects as soon as he retired from the active ministry. On May 29, 1904, he married Grace L. Lewis. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. J. F. McConchie of Reedley, Calif., Mrs. B. F. Muench of Watsonville, Calif., and a brother, James Fraser, of Media, Pa.

► THEODORE ARTHUR CORNELL, A.B., A.M., retired teacher, born Hartford, N. Y., Sept. 20, 1879, the son of Rev. Henry A. and Augusta (Yeomans) Cornell; died in Cranston, June 5, 1942, after a long illness. He gave up teaching in 1933.

An outstanding student at Brown, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in Junior year, his only extracurricular activity was debating. Mathematics was his major subject. After graduation he was assistant in mathematics while studying for his A.M. degree, which he received in 1904. During the war year 1918-19 he returned to College Hill to be instructor in mathematics.

In his public school career he was principal of Burrillville High School at Pascoag, and on the teaching staffs of Hope, Technical, and Commercial High Schools, Providence. For many years he owned and operated Green Shutters Lodge, a summer hotel at Boothbay Harbor, Me.

On June 4, 1909, he married Helen Burns Horton, who is his only immediate survivor.

► BOWEN PULLMAN RYDER, correspondent of the Sayles Bleacheries, born Pawtucket, April 8, 1883, the son of Richard H. and Almeda E. (Gorton) Ryder; died of pneumonia in Ann Arbor, Mich., May 5, 1942. He had been with Sayles Bleacheries since withdrawing from college in 1905.

At Brown he played on and managed the class basketball team and was affiliated with Phi Gamma Delta. In Saylesville, his home for many years, he was president of Sayles Memorial Men's Club, clerk of Sayles Memorial Chapel and superintendent of the Sunday School, secretary of the Sayles Free Public Library, and secretary-treasurer of Saylesville Tennis Club. He was also a Mason.

On Aug. 11, 1906, he married Miss Eva M. Congdon, who survives, with a daughter, Myrtle Congdon Ryder Snyder, Pembroke College '31, wife of Marshall L. Snyder '30.

► ULYSSES SYLVESTER GRANT SCULL, A.B., stock broker, born Philadelphia, Pa., July 8, 1880, the son of Thomas W. and Elizabeth Chapman (Tebbit) Scull; died in Philadelphia, Feb. 2, 1942. He was the father of Jean Sargent (Mrs. G. E. Bishop), former radio singer who made a name for herself in the early years of air programs.

In college Grant Scull was best known as a member of the Brown Glee Club and of the Brown Quartet. He sang with both throughout his four years on the Hill, and was in the chapel choir for the same length of time. "He is a regular humming bird," said Liber Brunensis, "and without him the Glee Club would be worse than it is." He was also an editor of the Liber, a member of the Vaudeville Club, and the Class Hymnist.

After graduation he spent two years with Paul R. Bullard Co., Boston publishers, and then went into life insurance work for a short time. In 1911 he joined Brown & Bigelow, advertising, with their main offices in St. Paul, Minn., and remained with them until 1918 when he accepted a place with the U. S. Shipping Board. During the next year he did rehabilitation work among disabled veterans. Since 1919 he had been in the investment business as salesman for Wall, Syrne & Bressler, for other firms, and for his own office.

On Feb. 26, 1910, he married Miss Elsie Van Horne, who survives, with the daughter mentioned above (she is the wife of Maj. G. H. Bishop, U. S. A., Fort Sam Houston, Tex.); two brothers, and two sisters who live in Vineland, N. J. His fraternity was Phi Gamma Delta.

► GUY FORNEY STRICKLER, Sc.B. in civil engineering, born Lebanon, Pa., Jan. 1, 1886, the son of Cyrus F. and Annie M. (Garber) Strickler; died in Providence, July 2, 1942, after a month's illness. Since 1934 he had carried on his own business of investment planning and counsel.

Classmates and college contemporaries will long remember him as one of Sock and Buskin's best actors. Villains were his delight, and melodramas his favorite plays. In comedy, too, he shone, playing satirical, cynical characters who, to some of the audience, were often more human and appealing than the heroes. He appeared with Sock and Buskin during his four years on the Hill, and was President of the society in Senior year. He was Vice-President of the Vaudeville Club, Treasurer of his Junior Prom Committee, and a member of Theta Delta Chi.

From college he went to work for Library Bureau, was New England manager, Babson Statistical Organization, three years, and manager of the company's Greater New York office one year. Then he joined Business Statistics, Inc., and from 1916 to 1934 was New England manager, Standard Statistics.

On June 1, 1912, he married Helen Comstock Capron, daughter of the late Dr. Franklin P. Capron '77. Mrs. Capron survives, with two daughters, Helena C. Strickler, artist, and Sylvia Strickler, Pembroke College Senior. His interest in Brown was real, but his work prevented him taking active part in Brown affairs.

► RALPH GODDARD WINTERBOTTOM, Ph.B., educational director and teacher, born New Bedford, Mass., May 28, 1896, the son of Edward and Elizabeth (Goddard) Winterbottom; died at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, Aug. 3, 1942, after a long illness.

"A man of restless, tireless energy and one who puts across the many things he undertakes," Liber Brunensis clearly characterized him. His struggle for a college education was a long one, but he persevered, winning his degree in 1929 with a major in education. On graduation he became educational director of the Providence Y.M.C.A. schools, a post which he filled with distinction and in which he carried out substantial and beneficial changes in the curriculum and in administration.

For two years after leaving the Y.M.C.A., he was director of National Youth Administration for Rhode Island, as well as in charge of the education program backed by WPA. He also served as principal of Slatersville Grammar School and as director for the American Red Cross at Ft. Devens, Mass.

On Sept. 4, 1926, he married Miss Phoebe W. Williams, who survives, with a son, Goddard W. Winterbottom, two sisters, and three brothers. He had been a member of the National Vocational Association and was former President of Northfield-Mt. Hermon Club of Rhode Island. ◀ ◀

Wartime readjustments . . . #2

THE GIBSONS GET AROUND RUBBER RATIONING — AND GET AROUND!

THE American sense of humor — and American ingenuity — make our many wartime adjustments easier than they otherwise would be.

Out of the whole process — learning to balance on a bike again and grow our own vegetables and live more simply — comes a new perspective. Non-essentials show up for what they are, and big things take their place at the head of the list.

For most of us, putting first things first means paying taxes, buying War Bonds and adding life insurance. Certainly life insurance has a special service to render in these tense times.

It's the quickest, cheapest, safest way to provide protection for families who now need protection more than ever. Its purchase helps to curb inflation, and contributes to the war effort because much of your premium dollar is promptly re-invested in Government bonds.

And it's one commitment that helps finance itself when premium payments come hard. How? Ask any New England Mutual Career Underwriter.

Here are some of the advantages of a New England Mutual contract

1. DIVIDENDS begin at the end of the first year.
2. CASH VALUES begin at the end of the second year.
3. A PREMIUM LOAN is available toward payment of the second annual premium.
4. CONVERSION to Retirement Income or higher premium plans requires the payment of difference in reserves only.

How to balance bike or budget

Both take practice. Both bring tumbles — at first. Both are easier with a little expert coaching.

Even if you're a born bike-rider, you can probably use some real help with the budget adjustments imposed by war.

Now is a good time to turn to the men listed below. They're alumni of your college and they talk your language. They are also trained representatives of the First Mutual Life Insurance Company Chartered in America.

Out of their experience you'll get practical, constructive suggestions. They'll help you make the most of your limited life insurance dollars — help you protect your present policies with premium loans if necessary.

Check your protection now when you need it most. If none of these men is near you, you can get similar service at the New England Mutual office in your city.

We're making readjustments, too. With some 15% of our field force now in military service, we have real opportunities for able men in several cities.

If you're interested in a satisfying career where you can be your own boss — and if your draft status is reasonably assured — we'd like to talk things over. Or perhaps you have a friend who might appreciate the tip.

In either case, just write to Wm. Eugene Hays (Stanford '26), 501 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass., for information. There's no obligation, of course.

"If I were twice as big"

"Then I could give the public all the service it wants and take care of the war on top of that.

"But I can't get bigger now because materials are needed for shooting. So I'm asking your help to make the most of what we have.

"Please don't make Long Distance calls to centers of war activity unless they are vital. Leave the wires clear for war traffic."
